"DRY" RESOLUTION
We, the students of the University of Illinois, rejoice in the stand taken by the President of the United States and the Governors of the States at their recent conference with reference to the enforcement of the law against the liquor traffic.

We also rejoice in and applaud the evidence from many quarters of the country of the growing determination of the public to demand an increased respect for and more implicit obedience to law, and we agree to do all in our power to promote this movement and particularly, to aid in the observance of the Eighteenth Amendment and the laws based thereon.

1. Based individually standing for prohibition.
2. By using our influence in the groups to which we are related to suppress the use of liquor.
3. By asking the co-operation of our alumni and friends so that on the occasion of our Inaugural Homecoming nothing will occur which can be construed as disrespect for or disobedience to the law.
4. By urging similar action on the part of other student bodies throughout the country.

DR. CALDWELL LECTURES TO PHIL. SOCIETY

Philosophical Club Hears About European Thought

GOOD DISCUSSION

Lively Discussion Follows Professor Caldwell's Address

The first meeting of the Philosophical Society was held last night in Strathcona Hall. After the business of the meeting, which included the announcement that the next meeting would be a joint meeting of the Psychological and Philosophical Societies, Dr. Caldwell gave his address on "Philosophical Tendencies in Europe of Today."

Professor Caldwell told first of his travels during the past year in Europe before coming to the consideration of philosophical tendencies there. He talked before several brotherhoods and universities in England, telling them of the practical application of learning on this continent and of the need of efficiency in England. He expressed to them the admiration of the overseas Dominions for English leadership of the world and the need for the perpetuation of this leadership. An Italian statesman told Dr. Caldwell that he considered the British Empire the political descendant of the great Roman Empire. In this connection, Dr. Caldwell said later in his lecture that, if the British Empire is to remain what it is, it must have a king at its head.

On the continent Dr. Caldwell told of American and Canadian philosophy; and he found there, outside of Germany, a decided preference for English thought over the absolutism of Germany. The lecturer was struck especially in France by the attempts, not entirely without success, of French scholars and Protestant religionists to achieve a rapprochement with similar bodies of men in Germany. In Italy he was struck and pleased with the regime of Mussolini, expressive of the popular renaissance of that country, particularly among students. In Vienna he found a strong feeling for French art and learning and disapprobation of the occupation of the Rhur on the ground that it tended to isolate Austria farther from France.

Finally, in the country he was most interested in, Czechoslovakia, Dr. Caldwell found many things to attract and interest him. He was (Continued on Page 4)

JUNIORS' DANCE TO BE A SUCCESS

Allotment of Tickets by Pro Rata Method

Perhaps the most important social event of the day and festive season is the Junior Promenade. It is important because just once in the life-time of the average undergraduate is there the opportunity for participation in the revelry of such an occasion. It is indeed a memorable evening.

The air is full of anxious whispers and with interest so high there promises to be keen competition for the tickets. The price has been set at six dollars per couple.

Last evening the faculty representatives met in the faculty room of R. V. C. and with the able guidance of last year's convener dealt with the important preliminary business. It might be suggested that any representative for Law was conspicuous by his absence. It is hoped that this will not be the case at the next meeting on Wednesday evening.

Among other things it was decided to grant a free ticket to the person submitting the most original design for the programme of the Junior Dance to be held on the 23rd of this month. Those interested are requested to see Murray in the Music Room of the Union to-day between five and six p.m.

There was a lad from Gorum. He had a pair of pants and he wore 'em. He felt a draft, and when he felt aft, He found out where he'd torn 'em.

CHAMPUS CAT—PLEASE NOTE

The McGill "Daily" claimed to be "The only College Daily in Canada." Then we splurged ourselves as a daily. Then they claimed to be "The oldest College Daily in Canada," which is true but ungrammatical, as we would use "older" for preference. Try again, Mac.

"Champus Cat" in—The Varsity.

For the benefit of our readers: The Oxford dictionary gives the meaning of the word "splurge" as "to make noisy display or effort." Possibly also our contemporary meant to say "Then 'it' claimed to be, etc." instead of "Then 'they' claimed to be, etc." Try again, "Champus Cat."

OPENING DAY OF PARKMAN EXHIBITION

Crowds of Visitors View Parkman Exhibit at Library

COSTLY PAPERS

Celebration at Windsor Hall Nov. 13. M. Jussereand Will Speak

Nine o'clock yesterday morning found the doors of the Francis Parkman Exhibit Room veritably crowded by an enthusiastic gathering of the historian's admirers. The keenest interest in the biography and works of Parkman was evinced and Mr. Du Plenis admitted to his interviewer that Dr. Lamer and himself were well repaid for the time they had spent in the collection of this valuable exhibition. McGill students are especially fortunate to have brought within their reach a collection of original and contemporary works, of valuable documents, signatures, and photographs not previously brought together. This exhibition is an invaluable attribute to the proper celebration of the centenary of the birth of Francis Parkman.

Possibly few of the people who shall view his works are aware how intimately he was connected with McGill University. Though a Bostonian he was deeply interested in Canada and in her progress during the perilous pioneer days. His association with Indians and Jesuits made possible the correctness of his histories. Of special interest to McGill students is the fact that there are in the Library several of his works presented and autographed by himself and, in the minute book of the college, a record of the conferring of the L. L. D. of McGill University upon him in the year 1879.

The museum Exhibit occasioned more startling things than an early morning crowd. It revealed the author of an anonymous leading article of "The Times Literary Supplement," entitled "Francis Parkman." McGill University has occasion to be proud of its author, Basil Williams, Professor of History.

Though McGill Library has an almost priceless collection of original letters and books much material had to be brought in from Harvard University, the Massachusetts State History Society, and the Canadian Archives at Ottawa are the collectors mainly indebted. From the Mass. State Hist. (Continued on Page 4)

CASE REPORTS DISCUSSED BY MEDICAL MEN

Dr. Martin, Speaker Was Unable to Attend HALL FILLED

Lower Years Find Meeting of Practical Value

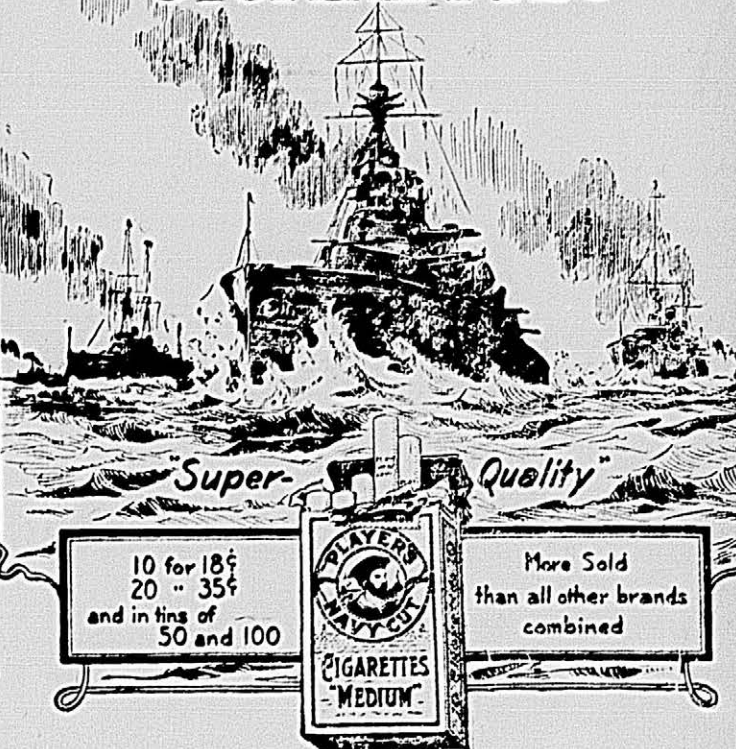

The Medical Undergraduate Society assembled last evening for the third time this season in the Assembly Hall of the New Medical Building.

Owing to Dr. Martin's inability to be present to address the Society, the evening was given over to the discussion of three interesting although somewhat typical case-reports. The value of this type of meeting can only be estimated by those who were present to hear the various opinions advanced as to diagnosis aside from the fact that a great many useful and interesting points were brought out, the opportunity of the student of expressing himself in public is of inestimable benefit which in this regard a great many professional men are lacking.

The method adopted for the discussion of a case is as follows: A student reports the history of the illness, the result of the physical examination, and finally after reviewing the clinical symptoms, arrives at his opinion as to what diagnosis should be given. The meeting is then thrown open for discussion, following which the result of the post-mortem examination is read and the correct diagnosis then stated. The first report was ably discussed by Black and Douglas, the second by Mallet, and the last by Fraser.

Previous to the discussion, a short business meeting was held at which the Secretary read a letter received (Continued on Page 3)

THE BASKETBALL SEASON OPENS

Yesterday ushered in the McGill basketball season and if one can judge safely by the enthusiasm of the opening day, the prospects for the year are of a decidedly cheerful hue. But there's the rub, for can one predict great things merely because the inauguration of any task is featured by great numbers, abundant optimism and a super-amount of energy? We think not, for from time immemorial the passing of time has too often meant the decline of an enterprise, with failure driving out success and indifference replacing enthusiastic support. Great adventures, like the Crusades, were endangered and sometimes completely wrecked, because the warriors tired of hardships, became embittered because glory did not descend upon them, and finally turned their faces homeward, toward the softer paths of peace. But on the other hand there have been those—and their name is legion—who, once they had set out on a quest, knew not how to turn back and pressed onwards, despite fearful odds, trials and doubtful outcome. They may have died in their cause, they may have met with defeat, but their names have lived down through the ages, while those of their weaker comrades have long since gone into oblivion.

And yesterday saw the commencement of an athletic Crusade. The basketball men have started once again down a path, which is somewhat stony, but at the end of which Intercollegiate and City championships shine brightly. There are bound to be stiff and obstinate encounters on the way but if those who turned out at the first practice continue to give their active support throughout the season, not disappear when they fail to attain the highest places; if the enthusiasm continues in its present unbounded condition, and if the undergraduates wholeheartedly back the basketball men until the final whistle of the final game—then success should be ours and success in no small measure. McGill at present holds the high honors in Intercollegiate and City circles but our rivals are eagerly planning our downfall. They have chosen hard tasks but their attacks will be serious and will be in deadly earnest. Let every player then and every student, give his best to help the Red and White again achieve great things in the basketball world. Slackers and those who display mere superficial enthusiasm are detrimental and their presence is certainly not requested. We hope there are none here, who will have to accept this invitation to be absent.

GO SLOW AT THE START

The passing of the first month of the present term finds university activities in full swing and the greater part of the student body has entered into various athletic and social events. A freshman entering college for the first time is very apt to be swept into the whirl of these activities to the detriment of his studies. Our warning to him is to go slow at the start. There is plenty of time in the years that he expects to be here in which he can enjoy the various functions outside the realms of his studies. The first year is always the hardest for a 'prep' school graduate. He is brought into an entirely different system of education from that which he has been accustomed. Here he has no driver but himself and if he fails to pay the attention that is due his studies he will find himself in a great deal of difficulty. Time is a huge element in any student's college career and in the midst of fast moving events he is apt to forget that in the offing are the Christmas examinations, which have been and will continue to be the final resting place of many ambitions. Our advice to the freshmen, and other students may profit by it too, is that they set aside a small portion of each day for a study period. The ability of some students to cram at the last moment is not cleverness—it is a sad mistake. The art of passing an examination is not what constitutes an education. This is a truth which is becoming more and more evident every day especially when we see many cases of brilliant students sink out of sight as soon as they start the struggle of life. A student should remember that here he has an opportunity to prepare himself for his life work, gain refinement and culture, and to acquire those distinctive qualities that mark the college man.

C.O.T.C. HOLDS
FIRST INFORMAL

Military Dance to be Staged
Nov. 9th.

The first event of the Social Season of the McGill Contingent, C. O. T. C., is the first Military Informal. This dance will be held in the Union on Friday, November 9th. It will be even better than the last Informal, if possible, for the C. O. T. C. have an experienced committee, which has received valuable aid and advice from those arranging the ordinary Informals. All men possessing uniforms will wear them, others will wear mufti. The dance is not solely a C. O. T. C. affair. The whole college is invited and expected. The Orderly Room, in the Registrar's Office, will be open from one o'clock on for the sale of tickets to students not members of the C. O. T. C. Up to last night the sale of tickets was restricted to week's "Daily," from Tuesday on, tickets are on sale to anyone.

No one need fear that this dance is in any way a Recruiting rally for its Contingent. There will be positively no attempt to induce men to join. There is a rumour that the name of any person making a recruiting appeal will be taken, and C. S. M. Hyde, the Sandow of the corps, and a band of stalwarts will attend to the ardent soldier later. Members of the corps refused to discuss this rumour last night, but Major Howard, the report says will throw any man who speaks of recruiting on both ears sometime during the week following the dance.

In Memorium

It was with deep regret that his many friends and classmates heard of the accidental and tragic death of Leigh Watson.

Leigh was a sportsman (in his line) thorough and true. His ideals and habits were such that the best could rightly call him friend; and his manner, though quiet and unassuming, carried with it a sincerity and a forcefulness that cannot be overestimated. His sense of honour was acute, and he might well be said to have been "manly" in every respect.

His ability was no less marked. In accountancy he was especially brilliant. His good initiative, fixity of purpose, and capability were amply exemplified by the importance of the position his firm had placed in his hands. It was in the carrying out of his work that he as accidentally drowned "Lee" and his father it is thought were caught in the swift current caused by the opening of one of the dam gates and in this way met their death.

Leigh was in his twenty-fourth year, and saw service overseas. On coming to McGill he was made a Sergeant in the C. O. T. C. in which he took an active interest throughout his course.

ACQUATIC MEN LOST GAME TO VERDUN

V.A.C. Poloists Combined to Win by 5-4

INTERMEDIATES

Forsyth Scored Three Goals for Red and White

Playing far below their usual form, the McGill intermediate poloists were defeated last night at Ville Ennard tank by the Verdun team.

In the second quarter particularly the college boys were outplayed by their opponents. They became disorganized at the start and could not recover. In the third, however, they came back strong and held the V. A. C. men in fine fashion, but on the whole nights' play the home team had a decided edge, both in ball-carrying, in combination, and shooting. Verdun did a good deal of long-distance shooting, and although many shots missed, enough went in to make the difference in the final count.

The Play.

V. A. C. scored at the outset when they took the ball from McGill and shot from away out. They kept up long-distance shooting, but McGill went to the attack and after some close shots, Vickerson put one between the posts, evening the count.

Verdun worked into McGill territory but shot wide. The play went back and forth. V. A. C. made a wild shot from centre and immediately after McGill took the ball back and Forsyth scored, putting the students ahead.

Verdun staged a fine attack but their shots either went wide or were stopped by the McGill goalie. There was a great deal of play in centre with each team breaking away towards their opponents' goal. Then Forsyth obtained the ball, shook off a hard tackle and sent the ball home for McGill's third counter, just before the end of the quarter.

In the second Verdun kept the play in McGill territory shooting from far out and from close in. Shot after shot either missed or was stopped by Bethel. Once or twice McGill kept the ball back but V. A. C. kept pressing and at last one of their forwards took a long pass close in and scored.

On the throw-in, Verdun got away fast, and counted again on a shot from centre.

They kept up their bombardment of McGill's goal but failed to bulge the nets. The students then began to even up the play and the ball went back and forth. From the mix-up in centre V. A. C. scored on another of their long shots.

The play was kept even until the bell ended the first half with it still anybody's game.

Score V. A. C. 4, McGill 3.

Verdun opened the second half with a long shot which went wide. Then McGill went down and kept the play in front of V. A. C. goal. Verdun carried the ball back and failed to count and play was kept in centre. The play at this time was very even. Verdun began another long-distance bombardment but could not add to strong and Forsyth sent in the tying point. The quarter ended with the ball in centre.

At the beginning of the fourth the play saw-sawed from one end to the other. McGill was forcing the play and Verdun cleared the ball from their goal mouth. Hard checking featured the play at this point. Then Verdun went to the attack and a forward took a long pass and sent the ball between the posts for the winning goal.

Both sides kept up long-distance shooting until the end of the game. Final Score: Verdun, 5, McGill 4.

BASKETEERS OUT IN FORCE FOR PRACTICE

McGill Assured of Good Material

GREAT INTEREST

Van Wagner Pleased; Expect Keen Competition for Intercollegiate Cup

The initial practice of the McGill basketballers was held last night in the High School gymnasium. Another record was added to the Alma Mater's swelling list, when the attendance was found to be over eighty. The material in quality and quantity is the finest that McGill has ever turned out.

Coach Van Wagner expressed the gratitude of himself and Manager Hayes in a few words at the beginning of the exercises. It is his plan to hold practices three times each week in order to get the candidates into the best possible physical condition. He expects to choose the 25 most eligible men on Friday and therefore urged to leave aside all rough play and foolishness and to start right in to play clear, scientific basketball. From the 25 chosen on Friday an intermediate and junior team will be selected.

Those not chosen in the first 25 will be given another chance to make good. They will practice at the same hour at Molson Hall. Eliminations will be held and there, also, two teams will be chosen from the men who show the greatest ability and speed. The competition will, without doubt, be the keenest in the history of McGill basketball. Manager Hayes wishes to have it understood that every man in the university is still eligible to try for a place whether or not he was out last night. Freshmen are urged by him and Coach Van Wagner to put in an appearance on Wednesday from five to six o'clock at the High School gymnasium. Every man will be given a fair trial and workout.

The coach spoke of the fine opportunity for development which would place the candidates directly in line for permanent positions on next year's teams. He expressed the hope that the enthusiasm evinced last night would be of a permanent nature and would not die with the coming of another week.

The attendance was so great that but a few minutes were allowed for each team's practice. Men were permitted to choose which position they would play, then teams were numbered off and segregated. Odd numbers were given distinguishing sashes to be worn in play. The teams were then put through a brisk workout to enable the coach to get some line on the style of play of the different men. Fouls and rough play were called and some idea of the high standard of basketball McGill requires was given to the aspiring basketballers. After an hour's strenuous play the teams were called in and shown a few of the fine points of guarding.

The outlook for intermediate and junior teams is especially bright this year. Several candidates for these teams are slated to give some of the seniors an exciting run for their positions. The numbers of the men who are turning out will make possible the selection of the best basketball players in the university, not only for senior, intermediate, and junior teams but also for the teams which are to play in the Fresh-Soph. series. Queen's and Varsity have been practising for some time and it is in the wind that they have already built a new cage for the Trophy. McGill however, quietly awaits the outcome of the championship series. Coach Van Wagner and Manager Hayes are entirely optimistic and only ask that the enthusiasm last and that regular attendance at practices be maintained.

CASE REPORTS DISCUSSED BY MEDICAL MEN

That the executive of the Society has succeeded in making the meetings enjoyable for all years is evidenced by the fact that the attendance this session surpasses that of previous years.

PRACTICE HOURS

Many Students Taking Part in Popular Pastime

Already it is certain that twelve teams will play in this year's Interclass Indoor Baseball series, from which good material should be forthcoming for the Interfaculty and City League games after Christmas. This was ascertained yesterday at a meeting of representatives in the Union with manager E. Wright in charge.

"Considerable difficulty has been encountered," stated the manager, "in obtaining gymnasiums for the games." So far the players can count on having the use of only one of the Montreal High School gyms, and this only on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 to 7. Last year the Baron Byng gym could be obtained every night in the week, but so far this season attempts to arrange for the use of the gym, or that of Central "Y" or the Armoury, have failed. Hope is still held that the Grenadier Guards gymnasium may be obtained.

However, if no other floors are to be had excepting the Montreal High's the playing of double-headers twice a week will be necessitated. Those in charge wish to have the interclass series completed by Christmas, and to do this, the "knockout" system, whereby a team is eliminated on losing a game, will have to be used. The wish was expressed that last played two games before elimination, might be continued this year. Present conditions seem to make this impossible, since only twenty-two games can be played before Christmas. As yet no word has been received from freshmen classes regarding the entering of teams, but in the event of any first-year entries, their teams will not be called upon for the first games. This will enable them to get rounded into shape before playing.

Practice games will be held at the Montreal High today and next Thursday, while the regular schedule will commence a week from today. The manager stated that practice hours could be obtained by applying to Mr. Wagner at Molson's Hall.

After Christmas the Interfaculty series will be played. It is expected that the Interfaculty teams will be grouped in a regular league. McGill will also be represented in a City Indoor Baseball league.

The schedule for the Interclass games will be published in the "Daily" before next Tuesday.

ENGLISH RUGBY HERE SATURDAY

To Play Varsity in Championship Game

The first Intercollegiate English Rugby game to be played in Montreal this season will take place at the McGill stadium, Saturday afternoon, November 10th. The Intercollegiate title will be decided by the number of points scored during the season, and the team which succeeds in maintaining the lead on Saturday will have won the championship for 1923-24. The McGill team is determined, by hard practice this week, to overcome Varsity's advantage and to regain its title lost to Varsity last year.

In the practice game to-morrow on the Old Campus between the McGill A. and B. teams, the play will be finding any weak spots in A. team carefully watched, with the idea of finding any weak spots in A. team, and replacing the most promising B. team players. The selected A. team will then be worked together for the remainder of the season.

NEWFOUNDLAND CLUB OFFICERS ELECTED

At a short meeting of the Newfoundland Club yesterday, officers for the season 1923-24 were elected. Bert Bishop was made president. The position of vice-president went to Forsey. Ellis will be the club's secretary, and Bell, the treasurer. A reporter was chosen, Milley getting the position. There was very little business to come before the meeting and after the elections, an adjournment was moved and passed.

Student: "Professor, can you help me with this problem?"

Professor: "I could, but I do not think it would be right."

Student: "I don't suppose it would, but take a shot at it."

ARTS DEFEAT LAW IN CLOSE GAME

Game Featured by Many Sensational Plays

In one of the most thrilling games played in the campus this season, Law went down to defeat at the hands of Arts, causing a tie for first place. Although the field was in poor condition the game was very closely contested. The play throughout was remarkably free of fumbles. A feature of the play was the back-field running by Pierce of Law and McConnell of Arts. Bronson, who looked after the kicking for Arts, got good height, giving the whole plenty of time to get down. Nairn's tackling was a feature of the whole game. Myers and Friedman both proved very effective by their plunges through the line. Abinovich also made many yards for Law by his plunges.

At beginning of the second quarter Law was forced to rouge. The play was even throughout remainder of this period. In the third quarter Myers and Pierce made long runs for their respective sides. No further scoring in this quarter. At the outset of final period Arts secured the ball. Bronson, kicked a long one to Pierce who was downed on his 10 yard line. Towards the close of the period Law was again forced to rouge. The game ended by no further scoring. Arts carrying off victory by a win of 2-0.

Bronson and Nairn starred for Arts, while Pierce for Law.

The line-up was as follows:—

SENIORS RESTED AFTER HARD GAME

No Practice Was Held Last Night

Last Saturday's game with the Tigers earned for the Shaghtes a good rest and practice for last night was cancelled. Tonight however the work will be continued in an effort to be in the best possible condition for the game with Varsity at the end of the week. All the players with the exception of Campbell Cope are feeling exceptionally fit. The latter player is still suffering from his injury but he is feeling much better and the doctors hold out every hope for a complete recovery.

McGill's first victory of the season seemed to upset the expectations of the rugby critics and from their showing in the last game they are conceded a much better chance of beating the Blue and White in the final intercollegiate fixture of the football season. The Toronto team have been putting in hard work every night that they were able and will be doubtless travelling at top speed when the two teams meet. Both teams are anxious to win because a victory for McGill will leave the latter squad tied with Varsity for second place.

Although the Red and White have been considerably weakened by casualties the team is still in a position to present stiff opposition to any team they might meet. Coach is very optimistic about the next game and feels sure that his protégés will carry the field at Toronto. The Tiger-McGill game was a complete surprise to many rugby fans and besides heartening the team will give them added confidence.

FRESHETTES DEBATE WITH SOPH CO-EDS

Compulsory Education to be Discussed on Thursday

There will be a meeting of the Delta Sigma Society of the Royal Victoria College, on Thursday, Nov. 8th, at 4 p.m., the occasion being the annual debate between the first and second years. This is the first step in the interclass debates.

Debating is one of the activities of the Delta Sigma Society in which keen interest is taken. The Inter Class debates are always keenly contested, especially since the debating championship counts another point towards the much longed-for Inter Class banner.

The subject under discussion is "Resolved: That Compulsory Education Should Be Established in the Province of Quebec."

The freshettes, represented by Miss I. Scriver and Miss J. Belnap are supporting the affirmative, while the Sophomores, with Miss I. Allen, and Miss W. Griffin support the negative.

It is hoped that many members of R. V. C. as possible will be present on Thursday especially members of the first and second years' to support their own teams.

VERY GOOD TURNOUT AT BOXING CLUB

More Men Wanted for 6-7 P.M. Class

GOOD MATERIAL

Large Number of Good Men But Room for More

Well, the boxing classes are now well under way. To date, the lowest attendance at a class has been 48, the highest, 75; and the enthusiasm displayed throughout has been very convincing.

The first section of the work is allotted to mass formation instruction. The moves and counter-moves are described in as elementary a form as possible. Shadow boxing is indulged in, not only with the object of going through a few moves, but for what it is meant to be, and if deliberation and display of energy is to be taken into consideration, shadow boxing is never going to be a lost art.

What the boys term "the real thing" now takes place. There is a concerted rush for the gloves, and from this moment every square foot of the gymnasium is utilized. After the first round of boxing, the Coach puts on the instructor gloves, and, calling for anyone to take the floor, goes through a short, fast session in demonstrating "how not to get hit," bringing into practice the various blows, slipping, ducking, etc., that have previously been described. The appreciation of this was clearly acknowledged at the last class night when the Coach took on five in quick succession, and at the conclusion there were double that number anxious to get a turn.

The whistle for the second session brings all into action again, and away they go to the music of swishing gloves. Other instructive work is indulged in, and the end of the required amount of work leaves us with about ten minutes to go, a portion of the remaining time being employed in exercises that not only serve to attain a greater proficiency in boxing, but also to bring about a steadiness or tranquil feeling to those who have worked at top speed.

There is good material turning out for these classes, the value of this feature will be more clearly seen later on.

If it were possible, the Coach would like to see a greater number out for the 6 to 7 p.m. class, for with a smaller number, the individual instruction is more more greatly insured.

If there are any in the classes who desire individual instruction, it has often been made clear that the Coach will see that this is given; and should any desire to stay a little while after the class in this regard, the Coach will be only too pleased to accommodate them.

Should there be any whose subconscious fear has prevented them joining the boxing classes, they should understand that the fear is ill-founded, for provision is made for backward pupil or one handicapped physically. With added equipment the classes can now cater to a larger number, and "the more the merrier" is the B.W. & P. slogan.

ORIGINATOR OF GRENFELL MISSION HERE

Will Speak on Work in Labrador

SOCIAL WORKER

Under the Auspices of the Canadian Club

Thirty-five years ago, a young doctor only twenty-one years of age, was a medical missionary on a trawler in the North Sea. He left the trawler after a short while and went to the Canadian Labrador to continue his great work. This man was Dr. Wilfrid T. Grenfell. Alone, he worked like a slave, relieving the sufferings of the poor fishing folk there. Soon, however, the government recognized his efforts, and now, under his leadership there are six hospitals and a hospital steamer, four nursing stations, and orphanage and social service departments. These all combine to make living conditions in that part of the country much better. It may be said, too, that the work is carried on irrespective of creed, religion or nationality.

There is a resident population of about forty thousand people in Newfoundland. The Canadian Labrador population comprises about three thousand white people, and another three thousand in the Newfoundland Labrador. In the summer, this amount is increased by twenty thousand. These figures show, in a measure, the work done by the Grenfell Association. They look after the medical wants of some sixty-six thousand people.

There is already a very noticeable change in the condition of the people. Schools have been established and the work is now on a permanent basis. The great object of the mission is to help these people to help themselves, and although this has been a slow process, it will soon be an accomplished fact.

Dr. Grenfell is about fifty-six years old, and although there are many very competent workers in the field now, a large part of the resources of the Mission is due to his personal appeal. The Mission is on a fairly good financial basis at present, and is fixed to carry on its good work for several years to come.

Dr. Grenfell will give an address in Montreal on Tuesday, Nov. 13, under the auspices of the Canadian Club. This will be a great opportunity for those interested in Social Service.

CONSTITUTION OF SOCIAL WORKERS

Executive Organized for Coming Year

A meeting was held last Saturday morning in Dr. Dawson's office for the purpose of reading the Constitution for the School of Social Workers.

The Constitution had been drawn up by the Executive, which was read and accepted by all those present. In previous years there has been a lack of co-operation in this department, but it is to be hoped that a greater interest will be manifested in college and social affairs by the members of the present year.

The following officers were elected: President—Miss Russell; Vice-President—Miss Richards; Sec'y-Treasurer—Miss Russell; Daily Reporter—Miss Cummings. The Executive on behalf of this society wish to take this opportunity of thanking Dr. Dawson for his kind assistance and co-operation which has been greatly appreciated.

DR. TRUMAN SPEAKS AT ALUMNI BANQUET

Dr. Truman, president of Mount Allison University, and former principal of St. Andrew's Wesleyan College, is to be in Montreal on the 30th of this month for the purpose of addressing the Montreal section of St. Andrew's Alumni at their annual banquet and meeting, in the Central Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Truman will address the Quebec division on the 28th, the Sherbrooke division on the 29th, and Montreal on the 30th. It is expected that he will pay a visit to St. Andrew's on the following day, but arrangements for this have not been fully completed as yet.

pleased with the National Church of Czechoslovakia, an outgrowth of Catholic modernism. The union of the various groups in Czechoslovakia to form a nation and the larger union of the Little Entente (Roumania, Jugo-Slavia, and Czechoslovakia), Dr. Caldwell thinks is an epitome of what Europe as a whole will have to be eventually.

With regard to the philosophical trend of thought on the continent, Dr. Caldwell was pleased to state that there is little appreciation of transcendentalism. He said that any dynamic philosophy must be more than a mere rationalistic intellectual materialism. He believes that there is no existence without mind to interpret it—there is no object without a subject, there is a great need for a co-operative creative personality to reconstruct the world—a spiritual philosophy of universal love based on personality and justice. He defines love as "Charitas sapientis." We must reject Dean Inge's statement that the renaissance-world idea is a fallacy and that human nature is unchangeable.

To clarify what he had already said, Professor Caldwell remarked that a state of anti-intellectualism would be a bad thing. There is a great deal of loose thinking today about political science. "Man uses science; he lives religion" is a precept that must not be lost sight of. Canada, he said, is still somewhat provincial. Canada must create the impression that it can give something to the world.

Dr. Caldwell's talk was followed by a lively discussion, which centred about the dissemination of learning among the masses. Mr. Klineberg, the president of the society, remarked that last night's discussion approached the standard of the discussions of the society some years ago, which were famous for their vivacity.

Dr. Hickson, Dr. Walter and Dr. MacKay took part in the discussion of last evening.

LEG BROKEN IN GAME AT MacDONALD

Jamieson of Com. Interfacult Rugby Team Hurt in Game With Aggies

COMMERCE WON

Defeated Macdonald by 13-4 Score

An unfortunate incident occurred in Saturday's game at Macdonald when Jamieson, in a heavy line plunge, twisted his foot, resulting in a fracture.

Commerce defeated Macdonald at St. Anne's by the score of 13-4, Saturday afternoon in a well played game. The weather was ideal for football with no wind or excessive heat. Macdonald's line was much heavier than that of Commerce and often made their yards. End runs by Commerce were speedy and often netted them many gains. Macdonald were several times called back for offside interference but used interference to good effect throughout the game.

Commerce kicked off in the first quarter. Later they scored a touch. (5-0).

In the second quarter Commerce scored another touch which they converted. A drop kick failed to go over the bar; Macdonald was held for a rouge. In the third quarter a neatly executed drop by Macdonald centre half gained them three points. A kick by Macdonald scored a rouge. This ended the scoring; play for the intervening time saw-sawing up and down the field.

Final score: 13-4.

Amaron was the star for the losers, while Eveleigh showed up in fine form for the winners.

H. Botterell refereed. Fogarty of Macdonald umpired while Marsh once more officiated as head linesman.

HALLOWEEN PARTY A HUGE SUCCESS

Wesleyans Hold Festive All Souls' Eve

On Friday evening last the residents of Wesleyan Theological College, arrayed in their best, hied themselves forth into the vastness of Montreal. Each bold adventurer sought the lady of his fancy and returned triumphant with her to the "Halls of Fame" and in a very fitting manner disposed themselves through the mazes of a Halloween party.

The party was in the hands of the house social committee Geo. Penrose supported by "Norm" James and G. S. Bartlett better known as "Barl." The revellers met in the large reception room of Wesleyan which was tastefully decorated and lighted in the well known Hallowe'en colours, yellow and black. About the walls hung many a pennant from far and wide which showed that the residents of Wesleyan were gathered from all over the Dominion and Newfoundland. As a fitting climax the fire in the grate at the end of the hall burned merrily and lent a homelike to say nothing of merry spirit to the scene.

The evenings pleasure opened with a concert of no mean merit in the hands of Geo. Penrose. The programme ended in a skit representing scenes in college life. Norm James the author took the character of Hamlet modernized to student in college. He was accompanied by his page Horatio—"Barl."

A bed humming scene was enacted and the fate of the luckless hummer was shown. Squibbs Mundell and Bill Adams took the part of ghosts and two "Jimmy" was the luckless culprit.

A dainty novelty lunch was then served. The evening ended with a series of snappy games conducted by "Barl." Bartlett, after which Dr. Smyth gave a short address in which he welcomed all and hoped the evening was the forerunner of many other like it during the year. The party dispersed after the strains of God Save the King had died away.

R.V.C. INTER-YEAR TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Sophs Win Doubles From Freshies

With a beautiful bright sky overhead and the bracing air of Saturday morning, first and second years met in deadly combat on the tennis courts behind the R. V. C. The inter-year tennis has been greatly delayed this year owing to the weather and consequent condition of the courts, and also due to the fact that many of the class players had been kept busy preparing for "Sports" which were held last Friday. On Saturday morning however the doubles between first and second years were played off giving the victory to second year with the score of 4-6; 6-2; 7-5. The players for each year were as follows:—

Year II Year I
E. Duntin E. Cochrane
E. Cameron H. Wardwell

The first set started with a love game for second year, followed by a second game on Miss Cameron's serve. Miss Cameron easily won this game for her year by her very swift and well-placed balls. The third game, which was won by first year, showed their very steady playing and was characterized by several good rallies. The score now stood 2-1 in favour of second year.

The appearance of a very bright sun now melted the ice on the court and made it very slippery, thus rendering the play much more difficult. Despite this fact, the Freshies managed to maintain their steady play, and won the game, making the score a tie, 2-2.

The next four games were alternate successes till the score stood 4-4 after which the Freshies won two more games, and thus succeeded in winning the first set with the score of 6-4. Miss Cochrane's strong cross-cut drives and ably placed balls gained many of the points for her year.

The second set was a more unevenly decided one, the games being 6-2 in favour of the second year.

Both members of the first year team played a very steady game, but the second year players, though more erratic gave stronger shots and soon won the set.

The third set showed very good play and was not so one-sided.

The first games were won by first year, then second year were successful in evening the score at 3-3. By alternate successes the score then became 5-5, and then second year by two swift and well-played games gained the victory with a final score of 7-5.

The second year team will now play Miss Longworth and Miss Silver of third year, who defeated Miss Matheson and Miss Murray of fourth year, for the Inter-year Championship in Doubles.

The Inter-year Singles have not yet been played off but it is hoped they will be played early this week.

lory Society have come ten photographs of the celebrated historian which are to remain the property of McGill. Many manuscripts and documents, old books and pictures have been loaned by these institutions to illustrate the author's works.

Parkman's works include history, some fiction, a book on horticulture and miscellaneous criticisms, biographies and smaller articles. He is doubtless the greatest Canadian historian of any age, but his other works, too, are worthy of note.

Especially attractive and helpful is the arrangement of the exhibit. In twelve tables are his biography and works illustrated by documents, pictures, and contemporary literary works. "Frontiers of Old France" is illustrated by three documents signed by contemporary Kings and by the Pope Innocent IX who signed but 28 days, all of which deal with Parkman's career.

His "Jesuit Relations" was translated into French at an early date. La Salle and the Discovery of the "Great West" was written with difficulty owing to the refusal of the French historian Margry to let him use any of his "Archives." When these were published Parkman changed his original work. A valuable piece of this work corrected in his own handwriting is in possession of the exhibitors. The autographs of the three women mentioned in the "Old Regime" are on display. In "Court Frontiers and New France" illustrations are the original signatures of Louis XIV, Louis XV, two of Malsouneuve, Lajoie and Bigot along with some helpful pictures. Proof sheets of the first edition of "A Half Century of Conflict" in the author's own handwriting are presented in the case set apart for that book.

"Montcalm & Wolfe" and the "Conspiracy of Pontiac" completes his historical works.

"The Oregon Trail" is an interesting novel and the "Book of Roses" is the accumulation of knowledge gained from years of practical horticulture to which he devoted much time. "The Pathfinder" and the "Last of the Mohicans" are works based on life of Parkman's period.

Some of his works have been translated into French and German but were not satisfactory to the author. However these and biographies by friends and admirers attribute to him much honour and praise. McGill is fortunate in having received just a week ago a complete Centenary Edition of his works.

An opportunity of showing in a real way appreciation of the worth of Francis Parkman will be given McGill students on November the thirteenth. On this date a grand meeting will be held at 8 o'clock in the Windsor Hall, to celebrate the centenary of his birth. M. J. Jusserand, the French Ambassador at Washington will address the meeting. Dr. Bliss Perry of Harvard and Dr. Colby of Montreal will also speak. The Brassard Choir will render several Canadian songs and Sir Arthur Currie G. C. M. G. will be chairman of the meeting.

The work of Dr. Lamer and M. Le Noblet du Flessis in this regard is worthy of much regard and appreciation.

THEATRE FRANCAISE

"On the Banks of the Wabash," the feature presentation at the Theatre Francaise is a drawing-card for any show. The picture has a good story and is well screened. The film depicts the passing of the days when the picturesque paddle-wheel boats piled up and down the rivers. A navigator's son, living in a small village, has originated a new type of boat which is controlled from a shore station. He goes to Chicago where his idea is backed and financed by a rich chum's father. Here he meets many beautiful girls, forgetting his country love. The trials for his new boat are arranged to be held at his home town. He returns for them, and while there, the river floods and wrecks many homes. The old captain, his father, steams up the ancient paddle wheeler and saves many lives. The son hearing of the plight of his first love, goes to her aid and while rescuing her finds true love and the picture ends happily.

The orchestra is enlarged and has a pleasing musical setting for the programme. Operatic song is sung by two artists with well-trained and effective voices.

Pathe news and comedy round out a very good picture show.

A Real Relic

Teacher—If Shakespeare were alive to-day, wouldn't he be looked upon as a remarkable man?

Student—Sure, he would; he would be more than 300 years old.

ation. The exhibition forms not only a very valuable part of the celebration but it makes history more real, more comprehensible and enables a man to view some of the most valuable manuscripts, pictures and books in America.
